

serve your community

connect kids to healthy food in school

Jumpstart your career and become a part of a network of changemakers around the country.

As a FoodCorps AmeriCorps service member, you'll spend a year teaching kids about healthy food. Whether you teach virtually or in person, you'll earn a stipend, a year's worth of trainings and professional development resources, and a network of passionate food educators.

Teach hands-on garden and cooking lessons

Promote healthy eating options in the cafeteria

Support a school-wide culture of health
