Martin Luther King Jr.

January 15, 1929 - April 4, 1968

if you can't run, then walk,
if you can't walk, then crawl,

Ms. Allison's Class

Students in Ms. Allison's class working hard on their letters and vocabulary words through the use of a variety of hands on learning materials.

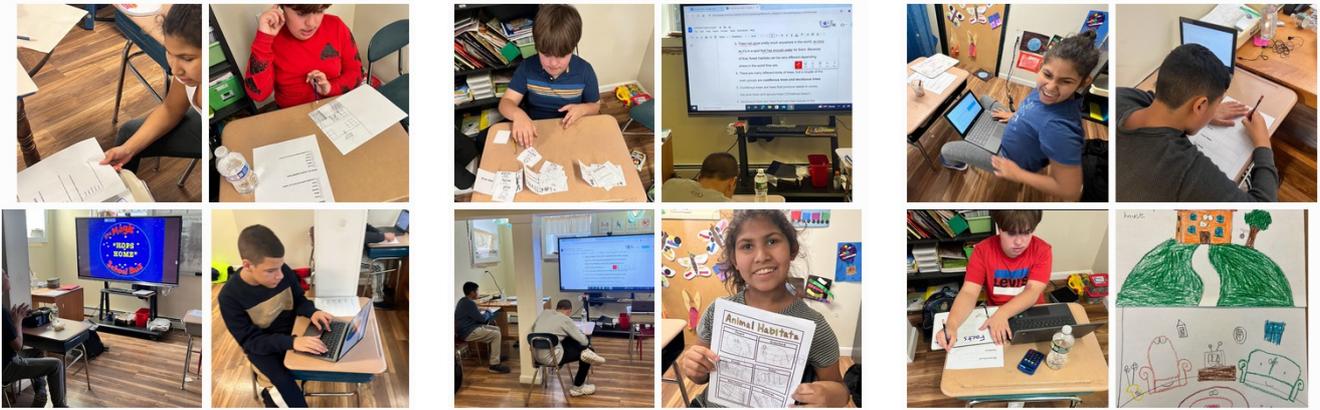

Ms. Kelly's Class

During ELA block, students in Ms. Kelly's class worked on building their high frequency words using a variety of materials. Students used stamps and snap pegs to construct the words. Follow up activities included using the words to build sentences and finding the missing vocabulary words using their AAC devices.

Ms. Ashley's Class

This week Ms. Ashley's class started their science unit on habitats. Students spent time researching facts and drawing pictures of the various habitats found on our planet. As a class, they read an article about a forest habitat and highlighted important information. At the end of the week each student drew a poster of their own houses. After drawing the pictures they explained how their homes were similar to mini-habitats. Then the students created their own habitats using materials found within the classroom. Students were required to make sure that their creative habitat had all of the components needed for an animal or person to survive.

This week in library class with Ms. Karen, students continued to work on the core vocabulary words of the month ("more", "done") through a variety of activities. Students also participated in activities based on the story "The Jacket I Wear in The Snow" by Shirley Neitzel.

PARENT HANDOUTS FOR HOME ACTIVITIES
UTILIZING AAC AND CORE WORD OF THE MONTH

January:

Core word of the month = More/ All Done/ Finished

"More crackers!" "I want more!" "Get more!" "Let's do some more!" The instruction of the word "more" is often debated in early education, however when instructed correctly, it can be a very powerful and useful word. This word also tops high frequency vocabulary lists for toddlers and for preschoolers.

In a given activity, the word "more" can be used to request "more" of almost anything. After requesting to swing, eat crackers, watch TV, drink juice, bounce on a ball, etc., your child can request to continue the activity or get more of a desired item by simply saying "more." He can say "more" to direct you to do more of an activity; to sing "more," to dance "more," to pour out "more" milk, etc.

The word "more" is also used to compare quantities. Model the word "more" during play, snack time or art activities when comparing amounts of toys, crackers or crayons.

'More' and 'all done' or 'finished' are often the first core words that are taught- sometimes through sign language, verbal speech, gestures or AAC. Since this is basic communication that can be conveyed through reaching, pushing away it is used universally. Core words 'more' and 'all done' can be used with ANY activity and in ANY context or setting.

Activities to model and use 'more' 'all done' / 'finished' at home:

1. You tube speech and language songs that target core words:
 - There are good videos/ songs on you tube that repeat the core words. I like to pause the songs on each slide and have the child say the word or phrase. These are great videos and there is one for many of our core words
 - More/ all done core vocabulary song by Speech and Language Songs on You Tube
2. Play: more songs, more tickles, more pushes on a swing, more chasing, all done games
3. Snacks/ Food: more/ all done incorporated at meal time- I want MORE milk; I am ALL DONE with my fruit.
4. Art activities or reading: more coloring; more paint; all done book; read more
