

Tall Stories

Another activity by Grahame Knox allows you to create your cool and creative story by having all of your students participate in creating a tall tale. Begin by having all of your participants stand in a circle. Next, start the story with a sentence such as “Yesterday, I went to the zoo and was passing the elephant enclosure when SUDDENLY...” Then, have all of the participants add on to the story ending it with the word SUDDENLY. The story will become more and more hilarious as students add on to the previous sentence.
